

Dear Friends: The time has come! The Last Castrato opens on Friday, November 12 at the Connelly Theater in New York City for a sixteen-performance run. Full details, including how to order tickets, bios, and some really interesting background information on the castrati are available on our website at www.lastcastrato.com (and be sure to "friend" us when you go on the site).

Preparing this show for production has been an amazing experience for me, and I am excited about the prospect of sharing it with you.

Below I have included some of the best shots of our brilliant cast from a recent photo shoot.

We are listed at http://www.theatermania.com/new-york/news/10-2010/doug-kreeger-jacob-pinion-liam-torres-et-al-set-fo_31564.html, <http://www.playbill.com/news/article/144272-The-Last-Castrato-to-Feature-Frank-Anderson-Doug-Kreeger-Bethe-B-Austin-and-More>, http://offbroadway.broadwayworld.com/article/Anderson_Austin_More_Set_For_THE_LAST_CASTRATO_OffBroadway_Opens_1116_20101025, and others. And if you want a good chuckle, check out our ad with www.parterre.com (we appear between the second and third stories on the home page).

If you have already bought your tickets, please forward this email to your friends. If you haven't, please do so right away...some performances are already starting to fill up!

Best wishes, Guy Glass

Jacob Pinion (Moreschi), Doug Kreeger (Cesari), and Liam Torres (Sarto)

Abe Goldfarb (Fred) and Jacob Pinion (Moreschi)

Jacob Pinion (Moreschi), Melissa Miller (Lillie), and Doug Kreeger (Cesari)

photos by Ashley Anderson